

Hi everyone, I'm Miranda, one of the Maids of Honor to my beautiful bestie, Reka.

I'm so honored to stand beside my best friend and her soulmate as they tie the knot and begin this next chapter of their lives together.

I first met Reka six years ago at our previous workplace, The Grand Havana Room, also known as GHR. From the moment we met, there was something about her that made me instantly trust her. In fact, within just a few weeks of knowing her, I lent her my car while I was out of town for the weekend—no questions asked.

Looking back, it probably sounds a little crazy to lend your car to a virtual stranger, but somehow, I already knew there was something special about our connection. That small act of trust marked the beginning of a friendship that has become one of the greatest blessings in my life.

Over the years, I've been so fortunate to share countless memories with both Reka and Andy—from trips to the desert and birthday weekends in Joshua Tree to adventures in Big Bear and nights out in LA that usually ended with me claiming their green couch for a sleepover.

Somewhere along the way, Reka and Andy stopped feeling like friends and simply became family. Reka, you know you're my sister for life, and I feel so lucky that life brought us together.

Watching the two of you together has been such a beautiful thing to witness. Through every season of life, I've watched you support one another, laugh together, and build a relationship rooted in trust, patience, and unwavering love. You make each other feel safe, understood, and celebrated—and that kind of love is incredibly special.

Reka, you have one of the biggest hearts of anyone I've ever known, and Andy, your kindness, loyalty, and love for her are evident in everything you do. I have complete faith that the love you share today will only continue to grow stronger with each passing year.

Reka and Andy, thank you for allowing Matt and me to be part of your beautiful journey. I love you both so much, and I can't wait to spend the rest of our lives celebrating milestones, making memories, and growing old alongside you.

Please join me in raising a glass to a lifetime of love, laughter, happiness, and a beautiful future for Reka and Andy. Cheers!
